PM Modi, Union Education Minister Pralhad Joshi and others at the 57th Convocation Ceremony of IIT Delhi, on Saturday

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 8

PRIME MINISTER NARENDRA Modi on Saturday, addressing the 57th convocation ceremony of IIT Delhi, told students to question things that are accepted without a thought, and stressed that they should not stop at questioning but have the courage to also find their solutions. Modi said India is now working towards becoming self-reliant in every sector; whether it is economic self-reliance, technological self-reliance, or industrial self-reliance; this forms the strong foundation of 'Viksit Bharat'.

"Amidst all this rapid change, remember my words: the one who continuously learns is the one who will win," he said.

Modi emphasised "Your degree tells the entire world that you know exactly how to solve highly difficult problems," he said. Crediting the current generation for powering India's Startup Revolution, he hailed the massive economic momentum generated by unicorns, digital payments, and the FinTech boom, which have provided unprecedented entrepreneurial platforms for millions.

PM Modi also said that he wished girls were also there among the medallists and awardees at IIT Delhi's convocation, emphasising the need for greater female participation in academic excellence. The PM presented the institute's most prestigious honours, including the President's Gold Medal, Director's Gold Medal, Shankar Dayal Sharma Gold Medal, and Perfect Ten Gold Medals to meritorious students.

The university conferred degrees on over 3,000 graduating students, including 587 PhD scholars, during the ceremony. "You will profoundly remember and be thankful for all these individuals in every future success of yours," Modi said. The Prime Minister also inaugurated Param Pragya, an AI-powered high-performance supercomputing facility established at the IIT Delhi's Sonipat Campus.

No charges for UPI users and small merchants

ONCE PARLIAMENT PASSES the Taxation and Other Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2026, the UPI and Services Steering Committee, headed by NPCI, will decide on the MDR, if any. The government said the amendment should not be interpreted as an immediate move to impose charges on ordinary UPI users.

"With exponential transaction volumes, the system requires significant and continuous upgrades in cybersecurity, fraud prevention, and infrastructure," the government said.

It also said expanding competition in the digital payments sector would require more companies to participate in the ecosystem.

The government further argued that dependence on subsidies alone would not be sufficient to support the next phase of UPI's growth. "Reliance on subsidies alone is not viable for the next wave of growth," it said, adding that a balanced framework was needed to ensure UPI remains "robust, inclusive, and future-ready". The finance ministry also rejected reports suggesting that external influences were driving the proposed policy changes.

It pointed to UPI's launch in 2016 and the decision to make the platform free for citizens and merchants from January 2020 as evidence of its long-term commitment to the digital payments system. Since its launch in 2016-17, UPI has transformed India's digital payments landscape, processing 2,366 crore transactions worth ₹29.9 lakh crore in July 2026 alone.

Hormuz deal hinges on conditions: Iran

"THIS INCLUDES THE compensation for the US's violations of the Islamabad Agreement," Araghchi added, referring to the now-lapsed memorandum of understanding signed in June. The ceasefire between the US and Iran lasted less than a month before collapsing over disagreements about control of Hormuz. It's unclear how Washington, which Iran insists is not part of the deal for Hormuz, will respond to a final agreement.

US Vice President JD Vance on Saturday said Washington is working to establish a route allowing commercial ships to safely pass through the Strait of Hormuz, while continuing to pressure Iran amid ongoing tensions in the region. Speaking to Fox News, Vance said the plan includes an Iranian commitment not to fire on commercial vessels and Tehran's assurance that it would allow the maximum flow of oil through the strategic waterway. However, he said the US remains sceptical of the assurances. "We're talking to the Iranians, of course. We're trying to maximise the amount of oil and gas that is coming out of the Strait of Hormuz," Vance said.

US President Donald Trump has insisted for months that navigation through Hormuz must be resumed unimpeded, threatening fresh attacks on Iran if it fails to reopen the waterway. The US has also maintained a blockade on Iranian ports. Reuters reported that the US will lift the naval blockade once a deal between Oman and Iran to restore commercial shipping is announced, citing a US official. A deal, the official said, is expected soon. Traffic through the chokepoint has been largely blocked since the start of the war, but some ships have continued to ferry cargoes through as part of a shuttle programme involving help from the US military. Many have done so turning off their transponders, making trips harder to track. Abu Dhabi National Oil said one of its vessels was targeted by missiles while transiting Strait of Hormuz early on Saturday, the United Arab Emirates's state-run WAM news agency reported. The attack caused no injuries and the situation has been brought under control, it added. Three other ships from the UAE's biggest oil producer were attacked this week. The incident highlights the ongoing risks for shippers attempting to make the crossing during the conflict, as Iran insists on asserting control over Hormuz. "Deals to reopen the Strait of Hormuz remain elusive, with investors teetering in the balance," said Rob Haworth, senior investment strategy director at US Bank Wealth Management. "For now, traffic remains low and the path to a durable deal remains unclear." Any deal for the Strait of Hormuz will need to be approved by Iran's Supreme Leader Mojtahab Khamenei and Iranian officials have said that it takes time to reach him, potentially delaying any announcement. There's no indication as yet over whether Khamenei has given his assent to current plans.

Clashes between the Iran-backed Houthi militants and the Saudi-aligned, internationally recognised government in Yemen also threaten to further escalate tensions in the Middle East. Yemen said on Saturday its armed forces carried out a military operation overnight against the Houthis, who control much of the country, marking the first known retaliation to attacks this week.

100% tariff sword hangs over India

THE ENGINEERING GOODS exports to the US stayed positive in financial year 2025-26 despite punishing Trump tariffs, but any additional levy would dent the competitiveness of Indian shipments, he added.

"The White House supports the measure and has indicated that Trump would sign it. However, passage in the House isn't certain. Some lawmakers are concerned about giving the president wider tariff powers and raising costs for American businesses and consumers," said Founder of Global Trade Research Initiative Under Sri vastava. The bill's sponsors have identified China, India, Slovakia, Hungary and Azerbaijan as the five largest buyers of Russian crude, he pointed out.

The legislation would require the US Trade Representative (USTR) to identify and review the five largest buyers of Russian energy every 180 days.

The proposed law also provides for exemptions in certain circumstances. Countries importing less than 15% of their total energy from Russia and demonstrably reducing their dependence on Russian energy could qualify for an exemption. The tariff authority would remain in force for five years unless renewed by Congress.

"The stakes are high. Russia supplied 30.3% of India's crude imports in 2025-26 — $40.8 billion of a total $134.7 billion. Discounted Russian oil has lowered India's import bill, strengthened energy security and helped contain inflation. Giving it up under pressure would impose real costs on the Indian economy," Srivastava said, adding: "India shouldn't allow tariff threats to determine its energy policy."

After q-comm, doctor within minutes

HOWEVER, THEY DO not guarantee a doctor under an hour. Max@Home, Medanta and Apollo HomeCare offer services across major cities, including Delhi-NCR, Dehradun, Mohali, Mumbai, Lucknow, Nagpur, among others, and offer specialist visits, nurses and home medicine deliveries as well.

Founder of Dr Morepen Home Abhishek Bhayana said they work with more than 150 doctors across Delhi-NCR, "Once an enquiry is logged, a doctor is assigned in 4-5 minutes on average. Most of our visits are instant requests rather than scheduled appointments, and the doctor typically reaches the patient's home in under 60 minutes." In less than a year and a half, Dr Morepen's doctor at home service has serviced 10,000 new patients, gaining approximately 500 new patients every month, with nearly 50% of the patients coming back for repeat consultations with the doctors at home, said Bhayana. Aditya Gupta, founder of Kyno Health, which operates in Delhi-NCR and Bengaluru and offers only home visits, said, "Kyno launched with at-home medical services in January 2023, and we have since completed over 50,000 consultations." He added that usual complaints are for emergencies like fever, digestive issues, blood pressure, breathing difficulty, allergies or animal bites. "We work exclusively with our own panel of doctors and each one is mapped to a defined, restricted zone. That geographic discipline allows us the 60-minute arrival window consistently." Similarly, Doctor@Home, has been operational since 2021, and has provided care for approximately 12,000 families, providing a network of 500 doctors across the cities under its purview. Pricing depends on several factors. A standard same-day general physician home visit typically costs between ₹500 and ₹1,500. Sanocare offers a doctor-supervised home visit starting at ₹499, while Doctor@Home lists a pricing of approximately ₹999 for a home consultation. Pulse Doctor at Home and Doctor Dada charge around ₹1,499 for a GP visit in Delhi-NCR. Premium services or specialist consultations generally range from ₹1,800 to ₹5,000. According to Gupta, this model currently works in urban settings only. "Kyno fills the gap of quality-assured immediate primary healthcare in urban India," he added.

Quick-commerce app Blinkit offers a free ambulance service within nine minutes across select locations in Delhi-NCR. Launched in January 2025 with five ambulances, the fleet has now grown to 49.

On-board services include essential medicines, equipment to check vital signs, automated external defibrillator, oxygen cylinder and stretcher, as well as trained paramedics and duty assistants with a doctor on call for guidance.

Despite low sales, Hero winning on EVs

HE ADDED THAT Hero's C-suite representation on Ather's board provides vital strategic visibility into one of India's leading EV players. Hero's stake in Ather serves as more than a financial hedge — it is a portfolio of complementary bets across the E2W landscape. If Hero is able to successfully convert market insights from Ather into competitive strength for Vida, it would have executed a masterclass in portfolio strategy, and even if not, it would keep winning on the back of Ather.

Meta's intermediary status under question

ACCORDING TO THE sources, if a platform determines what content gets shown to users, it amounts to publishing, and platforms would then have to take responsibility for their actions. The issue assumes significance as intermediaries enjoy certain legal protections under the Act, subject to compliance with prescribed conditions. Sources said the government has also asked Meta to take measures to address deepfakes following multiple rounds of discussions held over the past few days.

As such, intermediaries, including social media platforms, are statutorily obligated under Section 79 of the IT Act, read along with IT Rules, 2021, to observe due diligence as a condition for availing exemption from liability in respect of third-party information uploaded, published, hosted, shared or transmitted on or through their platform. Failure to observe such due diligence obligations may result in the loss of the exemption from liability under Section 79 of the IT Act, and such intermediaries may also be liable for consequential action as provided under any law including the IT Act and the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita. They added that the government would review the outcome of those engagements before deciding whether to seek legal opinion. Sources said the government will also engage with other platforms as it examines whether they satisfy the definition of an intermediary under Indian law. This week, the government questioned global team of Meta on issues including deepfakes, child sexual abuse material, unlabelled synthetic content and the functioning of recommendation systems.

After two days of intensive questioning of Meta top officials, the government on Friday shifted to technical discussions with the social media giant, during which the company detailed how it plans to address the Centre's concerns over deepfakes, child sexual abuse material and unlabelled synthetically-generated content on its platforms, sources had said. Officials will regularly follow up with the company on its progress, sources asserted. One of the key issues discussed was the reappearance, continued circulation and virality of AI-generated harmful content, even after it has been flagged. The government had also questioned Meta on why AI-generated videos without labels continue to remain visible on its platforms despite the IT rules requiring synthetic content to be identified and labelled, sources said.

The government asked Meta to have greater human oversight in content moderation, with enhanced awareness and understanding of Indian languages, as well as local nuances. Another meeting is expected to be held in the coming week. Government sources said the objective is not censorship, but to ensure that the company complies with Indian laws.

The government will continue to press the company to undertake sustained measures, actions and improvements to address its various concerns, they added. Meta's team led by Meta's global affairs head Joel Kaplan had met IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw and IT Secretary S. Krishnan on Wednesday and Thursday, following the government's summons over the temporary restriction of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Facebook post recently.
